Overview

Markets are constantly changing. Companies of all sizes and in all sectors have to adapt to the changes of globalization in order to remain competitive. So that you can solve these challenges and help shape international markets, the Bachelor's degree in International Business Administration at the BSP provides you with a solid academic education along with a high degree of application orientation.

State-of-the-Art Management Know-how

As a management school, BSP offers a Bachelor's Degree in International Business Administration which is a business administration degree with a clear focus on international management education. In modern companies, management skills are a key qualification for all employees and not just a task of the management team. Therefore, the transfer of state-of-the-art management knowledge is an essential core of the BSP Bachelor's Program.

Compulsory Semester Abroad

New York, San Francisco, Shanghai, Sydney, Mexico City, and Dublin – these are just a few of the places where our students spend their semester abroad. The fifth semester is integrated into the course of the studies as a compulsory semester abroad. You are free to choose where to continue your studies in this semester. The BSP International Office together with our numerous university partnerships will help you find the right university abroad.

Business English and Spanish – Two Firmly Integrated Foreign Languages

162 hours of Business English and 162 hours of Spanish are an integral part of the timetable over three semesters. Language training is provided by native speaker professionals. This guarantees the highest standards in language training. Are you a basic or a proficient user? No problem, the language courses differentiate according to the level of your current user skills.*

Practical Study – Theory and Practice are not Contradictory

Theory and practice are closely intertwined in the BSP Bachelor of International Business Administration Program. In two project study phases, you will get to know companies first hand from the inside. At least one of the project study phases is completed abroad. In addition, you will work on concrete business questions and practical problems in study projects. Regular presentations and excursions will offer you further insights into international corporate life.

Business Games and Case Studies: Make Real Decisions in Virtual Companies

Is it better to increase or decrease the price? How should expansion strategies be financed? Should quality or costs be the main focus? To act entrepreneurially, one learns best in real decision-making situations. Therefore, computer simulation, case studies and role playing are integrated into the lessons. Here, practice-relevant situations can be analyzed and business management options can be tried out.

»Intercultural Skills« Training

Working in international companies requires more than just theoretical knowledge, including working within international teams, resolving conflicts and applying inter-cultural communication techniques. In every job advertisement, »soft skills« are expected in addition to technical competencies. These »soft skills« are intensively trained within intercultural skills seminars.

The World is Open to You

As a graduate of the BSP Bachelor's Degree in International Business Administration you are internationally mobile, have experienced global language and intercultural communication skills for worldwide use and can deal with the challenges of a dynamic globalized economy.

About us

The BSP Business & Law School is a private, state-recognized university with a campus in Berlin-Steglitz and a campus in Hamburg's HafenCity. The study program covers the areas of business administration, management, communication, business psychology, creative business and law. All courses at the BSP are state-recognized and technically accredited or are currently in the accreditation process.

Teaching at the BSP takes place in three faculties. The Faculty of Creative Business stands for the unique combination of business management skills and an in-depth understanding of the innovative processes of the creative industry. The Faculty of Business and Management is built on two specialist pillars: Business Administration, Management & Communication and Business Psychology. The university faculty of law with the state examination course in law pursues an innovative and interdisciplinary training concept with key issues relating to the reality of work for lawyers in all professional fields. There is a regular exchange between the faculties through cooperation in joint projects with students and lecturers from other disciplines. The course at BSP is characterized by strong synergies and real interdisciplinarity.
