International Business M.A.

Program Objectives

In our MA.IB program, students from all over the world come together to deepen their knowledge in the classic areas of business studies, taking an international standpoint on the topics covered. All modules are taught and tested in English. Learning takes place in small groups. The teaching approach includes projects and group work, so students quickly become accustomed to working in international teams, while gaining an international perspective at the same time. MA.IB students spend at least one semester abroad.

Program Structure

The first academic year takes place in Mainz and is comprised of core modules, familiarizing students with the key subjects of international business. The third semester, which is dedicated to specialization, is spent at one of our partner universities abroad. During the fourth semester, students work on their master's thesis in Mainz or, if they opted to complete a double degree program, at our partner university. Our MA.IB program also includes an eight-week internship or work experience that can be completed in any country.

Prospects

Globalization has internationalized virtually every industry. Our program aims to prepare students who already possess a strong background in business and/or economics on the undergraduate level for their role as future managers in an international setting. MA.IB graduates earn the degree of Master of Arts in International Business.
